Four advantages of an international Workforce Management solution

Most managers in larger organisations are preoccupied with maximising the company's productivity. It is the company's competitiveness that is at stake.

In this regard, Workforce Management plays a pivotal role. And for companies who operate across borders there are even more benefits in choosing an internationally-dimensioned solution.

Time and attendance, staff rostering and productivity reporting do not necessarily need to be a local matter simply because the individual country is subject to local labour market conditions and regulatory framework in relation to working hours, overtime, flexitime, absence, holidays and remuneration.

Quite the contrary! There are at least four advantages of an international Workforce Management solution...

Two webinars for you

ProMobile – the perfect tool for mobile employees

Join our webinar on 18 November and learn more about how you can reduce costs and sources of errors by enabling your mobile and travelling employees to register attendance, absence and the time spent on different work tasks on their smartphone – anytime and anywhere.

ProAbs – analysis of employee attendance, absence and overtime

ProAbs is a tool that enables you to structure all follow-up on absence, to promote an early intervention and improve the interaction between the focus on health and employment. Join our webinar on 9 December.

Avoid errors in the payslip

Up to 50% of the Danes have found errors in their payslips, and a number of unions encourage all members to check their payslip a second time.

As agreements become more and more complex, this raises the requirements to the system which handles payroll calculations.

Have you digitized your contracts and agreements, or are there still manual calculations involved?

Correct salaries on time will also help to increase trust between company and employee – and we often see that time spent on payroll handling can be reduced by up to 50% by introducing ProMark.

If you would like to automate the process, we will be happy to assist.
