Self-service provides flexible planning and increased agility

Effective rostering is high on the agenda in many companies. In a dynamic workday it is important to be able to adapt and handle deviations so that production can always be maintained.

With ProMark, Brdr. Hartmann now digitalises the process for selling and swapping shifts. This reduces both administrative time and increases flexibility and agility.

More inspiration to become an efficient company

Do you want to increase efficiency and avoid heavy technical debt (read: use of outdated IT systems)?

We hold short webinars to show how we can help you create growth and good results by digitalising your workflows.

You will also get tips for building the business case for the investment – whether it is about purchasing a new system or replacing an existing one.

Get answers to your questions during our 30-minute webinar without obligation.
