

What is it worth to get better control of time, wages and absence?

Do you want to know if it is a good business case for you to get better control of time, wages, absence and scheduling in your company?

Mark Information has developed a Business Impact Assessment test based on our experiences from a wide range of industries.

The test will answer:

- How big is your investment?
- What is your savings potential?
- What is the payback time?

There are 10-15 questions and it will only take 2-3 minutes to answer. You will get an immediate answer.

Mark Information listed in Gartner's Hype Cycle for Human Capital Management Technology

Mark Information has been listed as a sample vendor within next-generation Workforce Management applications in Gartner's Hype Cycle for Human Capital Management Technology 2019 report.

Next-generation Workforce Management is the result of the following trends impacting the market: automation of the manager experience; employee experience; virtual assistants; new platforms; and the flexible workforce.

"We are happy to be listed as a sample vendor for Next-Gen Workforce Management applications", says Torkel Orlík, CEO, Mark Information. "We feel this corresponds very well with the areas we focus on in our continuous development of our ProMark solution."

How Kverneland Group has become more efficient

Kverneland Group Kerteminde, a Danish manufacturer of agricultural machinery, has used ProMark for many years to support their production processes: From time & attendance registration to job registration with integration to their payroll solution.

The integration between the two systems – and SAP – has not only resulted in a reduction of payroll preparations from 4.5 days to 2.5 days. It also means that Kverneland Group gets fast and valid data for the ongoing optimisation of their production.
